HE SOLD 17,800 TICKETS.
Chicago Journal.—The prize given to the fair salesmen who sold the largest number of tickets on Chicago Day—the rather modest one of a box of cigars—was won by Charles Dickey, an old circus ticket seller. He sold 17,800 tickets that day.

ONE SENATOR'S HOUR OF RAGE.
Washington Capital.—A Senator might have been seen on a certain night this week holding out glass lamp shades eight feet above the floor for young women to kick at. Fact is, he was seen to have paid $30 for the fun; but that isn't much when you consider that eight feet is a pretty good kick.

YES IT DOES.
New York Press.—For the first time in many years international revenue receipts during the past month exceeded the customs revenues. The excess was nearly $2,000,000. This does not mean that American men are using more whisky and tobacco probably, but only that American women are wearing less fine foreign toggery.

SAID TO HAVE BEEN 193 YEARS OLD.
Chicago Journal.—Jose Francisco Cortes, who died last week in Mexico, is believed to be the oldest man in the world. He is said to have been 193 years old, and they point to an entry in the local court register to prove it, but, as he left a son 60 years old, the probabilities are that Jose and the register and a deceased father or grandfather of the same name have become somewhat mixed up.

THE UNRELIABLE LETTERS OF THE ALPHABET.
Boston Transcript.—The letter "q" is a superfluous alphabetic character—a non-descript of the worst sort and of no more real value in expressing or helping to express our thoughts in writing than one of the Chinese word signs would be. It never ends an English word, and cannot begin one without the aid of the letter "u," being invariably followed by the last mentioned letter in all words belonging to our language.

HOW GIRLS KISS.
New York Commercial Advertiser.—The next time you happen to see two girls kiss each other just watch and notice how they do it. It is a very interesting study and you will be surprised to discover how many methods there are of kissing. A girl usually kisses another girl because she feels that it is her duty and one of the things she can't evade. Sometimes she does it when there's a man around, for it is well to set him a good example.

NATURALIZATION A FAIRIE.
New York Press.—"Is this a Monarchy or Republic?" asked one of the Judges of the Court of Common Pleas in New York the other day of an applicant for citizen's papers.

"Democrat—Democrat," said the applicant, hastily.
"He has the right idea," suggested the Judge, and he was admitted.
"Who is the President of the United States?" was asked of another applicant, an Irishman, in the Superior Court.

"George Washington," he answered promptly, and then, correcting himself, "Oh, no; it wasn't George Washington—it was—oh, yes, it was the President when I came over, but I don't know who is President now."
He also was admitted.

Under the present system of administering the law citizenship has become a cheap thing that only a small proportion of those who apply for the honor in this city pay for their own papers. Those pernicious institutions known as naturalization bureaus pave the way for all sorts of abuses. Tammany Hall has full sway in the County Courthouse, this fall, as the Republicans did not establish one of these hureaus this year. Tammany agents, with checks to pay the fees of those wishing to become citizens, are all about the corridors of the building, and a result, nearly every man who becomes a citizen in this month is a Tammany man.

NOT JOHN RUGGLES.
THE BODY THAT WAS FOUND IN THE RIVER WEDNESDAY.
Is Not the Well-Known Old Fisherman With Whom So Many Are Acquainted Around Here—Still a Mystery.

The body that lies at the City Morgue is not John Ruggles.
The fact is settled beyond a shadow of a doubt.
Yesterday morning when the news was spread broadcast over the city that the body of John Ruggles had been found in the river at the mouth of Bull creek, John and "Sunshine" Davidson, two nephews of Mr. Ruggles, started for his son, W. J. Ruggles, who resides in Lewis county about a mile from his parents' home.

They found him and returned to this city last night.
Mr. Ruggles viewed the remains this morning and is positive they are not his father's. John Ruggles had a poor set of teeth, but the corpse has a good set, and several other marks on Mr. Ruggles' face that isn't on the corpse makes his son positive that John Ruggles is still alive.

On the 26th of last April John Ruggles left home for the city to draw his pension, and since that time nothing has been seen or heard from him.
Young Mr. Ruggles is certain that he will find his father before to-morrow night.

This is the second or third time Mr. Ruggles has been reported dead.
Once last winter he was reported as having frozen to death in a shanty-boat at the mouth of Cabin creek.
It will be a hard task to make the people believe the familiar old fisherman is dead when he does die.

But we are all of the opinion that the stranger was murdered before he was put in the river.
Dr. Owens, whose word or opinion in such a case is gospel with us, and would go a great deal further than the verdict of a dozen Coroner's Juries in this country, says the wound on his face was made with a club or blunt instrument.

And why not take a man's word for such a thing who has made it a study, and who is one of the physicians and surgeons in this country in preference to those who do not know one earthly thing about it.
But then the Coroner's Jury will determine that thing this morning.

The identity of the corpse still remains a mystery.
The remains are badly decomposed, are roughly dressed and show that they have been in the water several weeks.
From present indications the body of the poor unfortunate will have to be buried unidentified in the Potter's Field.

It is a strange thing that so many people prefer to lead a life that will prove worthless to one that will elevate them.

NICE PLACE TO WALK.
At Least One of Our Fair Young Ladies Thinks So.

Second street, between Limestone and Market, is becoming very popular among the ladies.

One particular spot on the street is extremely popular.

And that spot is in front of Omar Dodson's wholesale grocery house.

John Ruggles is a gentleman in every sense of the word.

He built a large house in which to do his immense business, but to his surprise he has found out that it isn't large enough to accommodate his growing business.

Wednesday afternoon he had a lot of barrels and other stuff piled out on the sidewalk, with about room enough left in the passage way for a lean dude to get through.

A young lady came along with her erminette suit on and tried to wedge through this two-lane passage.

The horse was in protruding through one of the barrels like a yard arm on a whaling schooner.

It seems the erminette had a hankering after the mail, and caught on.

The mail did its work in elegant shape, simply taking a piece of the dress to remember the young lady to.

The young lady wasn't a bit mad—she is a nice young lady who has a nice temper.

She only said "pshaw," and proceeded to skin Mr. Dodson's proboscis.

But Mr. Dodson wouldn't have it.

He wanted to compromise.

He told the young lady to proceed on her way rejoicing, and the first dry goods store she came across where she could "work his face" to go in and get her new dress.

She hesitated, for fear of tramping on good nature.

He insisted, assuring her of the fact that he was a good fellow.

So the young lady accepted.

She went to the dry goods store and worked Omar's face to perfection.

It was a $4 dress pattern, and not one for a cent.

Omar thought she would "be easy" on him and send a piece of 50-cent cloth.

The young lady didn't wear calico.

And we don't blame her.

Especially when Omar is going to foot the bill.

But he was well "pleased" with the purchase.

WE are under the impression that Maysville is going to get a "push" on her "some sweet day, by and by."

WHAT LAST.

The United States Government Will Not Assist the Queen.

Minister, With Will Dismiss All Responsibility for Prigisms Acts, and Then Keep Hands Off—The Attitude of Uncle Sam Will Be Fully Explained.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Secretary Gresham took the first step backward Thursday afternoon. He sent for Senator Morgan, of the foreign relations committee in the senate. Mr. Morgan has been very frank in his condemnation of Secretary Gresham's proposed restoration of the disolute Queen Liliuokalani to her rotten throne.

Mr. Morgan was closeted with Secretary Gresham all afternoon. It was readily understood that during the interview Mr. Gresham assured Mr. Morgan that the administration's intentions had been clearly explained. He said that there was no intention to resort to arms to restore the queen, and that Minister Willis would not use any circumstances to assist her. United States marines and blue jackets to assist the queen. He said the attitude of the United States would be purely diplomatic, and would contain itself with a disavowal of the former steps taken by United States Minister Stevens and his staff.

He permitted Senator Morgan to infer that if Queen Liliuokalani was not strong enough to establish her rights to her throne under these unpromising circumstances, Minister Willis would not force the troops or sailors from the United States man-of-war to assist her.

The publication of Blount's report, upon a summary of which the state department has been at work for several days, might furnish some clue as to the new role which friends of President Cleveland would play in that future day when he will cease to be denounced by the press and public and will receive their united praise.

That the administration would play such a repugnant of public opinion is still persistently asserted, but there is a dismal lack of evidence in support of it.

The Hawaiian minister to the United States, Mr. Thurston, has caused it to be known that during his interview with Secretary Gresham, he was given no information whatever as to the policy of Mr. Cleveland, except that he was led to understand that force would be used in overthrowing the provisional government and in restoring Queen Liliuokalani.

There is no question as to the diplomatic status of Minister Thurston, to which a question has been raised by some of the administration newspapers.

Mr. Thurston was formally presented to President Cleveland last June and his credentials were accepted. Moreover, Mr. Blount, after being sent to Hawaii, was formally commissioned as minister to the Hawaiian republic.
